Dockside dining is a thing in the Hamptons, and Sag Harbor Kitchen's outdoor deck will likely have some of the hottest tables for a sunset-filled aperitif on the water. Located in Sag Harbor's historic former American space, the menu will offer fresh local seafood (of course), burgers, and steaks alongside vegetarian and vegan options. The spot—which opens June 15th—is also a partnership with Kittch, a platform connecting chefs with people online and in person, so expect lots of personalized dining experiences, cooking classes, and other events to break up your regularly scheduled Hamptons programming—a.k.a. enjoying a beach read on an Adirondack chair or lounging pool-side.
